

Medicine Wheel

South

This is the direction of our emotional self. It represents the summer time of our lives. It is a time when we follow our hearts. It is a place of passion and growth. It is a time when we are no longer children, yet we are not adults.

The teaching that corresponds with this direction is honesty. The honesty is represented by the sabe (big foot). Cedar is the medicine of the south.