

Understand the impact of COVID-19 within your school community

The OurSCHOOL Transition Back to School Module

We know that you are facing a pivotal point in education and we want to ensure that you have the information necessary to start the school year informed and prepared. As schools reopen, getting a pulse of students', caregivers' and educators' experiences during these challenging times will be essential to re-engage the school community and drive student learning.

Every school and district is unique and will face different challenges this year and likely into 2021. The new Transition Back to School module is designed to provide you with a snapshot of the impact of COVID-19 on your school community and help you to set goals and inform strategies. This new content will be ready for the fall 2020 school year and be available on the student, parent, and teacher surveys.

The survey module captures data on the key concerns raised by students, caregivers and educators. The module enables you to capture baseline data at the start of your school year so you can make informed decisions around school planning that will directly impact student outcomes.
